

NEXUS

the corpo-technico conference

AGENDA
2020

As the Techno-Management Festival of one of the most premier institutions of India, Techniche bears the responsibility of spread awareness across the entire North-East about the Technical as well as Managerial side of the industry. With the young population of the country spreading its wings in the corporate sector, it is the right time to teach them the ways of the corporate world.

With this thought in mind, Techniche presents 'NEXUS: the corpo-technico conference', the first step into corporate life. Due to the ongoing Coronavirus Pandemic, this year we will be conducting Nexus virtually. Spanning over two weekends (12-13th, 18-20th September 2020), packed with an array of activities and sub-events, Nexus creates an atmosphere that enables the participants to learn, live and decode the corporate world by interacting amongst themselves as well as Industry Professionals.

The conference thus provides an unparalleled experience which acts as a catalyst to those who wish to expand their horizons.

This year's virtual industrial extravaganza is a carefully curated selection of the following events:

Webinars: Short online lectures, accompanied by a brief question-answer session, led by accomplished world business leaders and successful entrepreneurs that will give you a chance to listen to and learn from their lives.

Panel Discussion: An engaging panel discussion on the topic "Telescoping into the future: Industry Trends, Careers, Essential Skills, and more", consisting of panellists from various industries. In an ever-changing world that requires versatility, this discussion aims to give you an edge over your peers.

Soft-Skill Events: Leadership. Emotional Intelligence. Communication. These are some of the essential skills that will help you deal with the day-to-day, professional and personal challenges of today's world. The experts at our soft skill workshop will help you hone these skills and become the best version of yourself through an interactive group discussion and a brief lecture.

Hack-a-thon: A great chance to lay it out and knock heads, this year's competition is based on design thinking. As a track that allows participants to explore the intricacies of the processes involved in product innovation and design, this year's design thinking competition aims to help competitors think out of the box

Boardroom Brew: A chance to get deep into the weeds of the corporate world, Nexus' 'Boardroom Brew' gives participants an opportunity to engage with industry mavericks, initiate discussions, and question the corporate formula.

Competitions: There's no better way to test your skills than a tight competition. Put your strategic thinking to the test in our virtual trading simulation and show off your pressure handling skills in our PR and marketing challenge.

The Conference aims to provide a one-of-a-kind platform, connecting entrepreneurship, business, and management enthusiasts to industrial big-wigs and visionaries. The conference boasts itself for providing students with the opportunity to broaden their avenues and learn about the business dynamics of the industry growing at a blisteringly fast pace. When it comes to talking about the ever-changing industry, there is no one who can outmatch the genius of the people who experience, analyze, tackle and even create these changes on a daily basis.

In this techno-management extravaganza blessed with prominent speakers, the webinar speakers will share their enduring experiences and their ambitions that fuel their continuing passion to build new enterprise businesses. Coming from varied industries and diverse backgrounds, each speaker has something new to offer.
